There are three early twentieth century barns located on the parcel slated for development as the Oak Ridge Park in Charles County. The submitted photographs depict three frame barns, including a tobacco barn and a hay barn. The buildings have lost integrity in their materials due to the deterioration and loss of roofing and siding materials, setting and association. No larger agricultural context remains such as a dwelling on the property or adjacent. Historically, Charles County has relied on an agricultural economy. Much better examples of barns and fully developed agricultural contexts exist in the county. These common early twentieth century barns do not exhibit any distinctive characteristics of type, period or method of construction.
